Pride of Work Awards

Issue: 29 July 2009

Last week's meeting was the annual Pride of Work Awards, once again arranged and hosted by the Master of Ceremonies Chris Adams.

LIBBY GOGGIN, graphic artist/pre-press apprentice at Monaro Post, nominated by Gail Eastaway who said Libby is involved in all aspects of the newspaper production and filled in as production manager this year.

She is an invaluable member of the staff, is very keen to learn and has developed an impressive range of skills which benefit the business and her own future Libby has progressed so rapidly she will complete her 4 year apprenticeship in two years.

LIZ DEE a teacher at Snowy Mountains Christian School, nominated by Graham Hope, who said Liz is dedicated to her students well beyond the call of regular teachers, willingly transports students to ensure they are able to participate in extra-curricular activities and provides breakfast for high school students to ensure they don't go hungry.
