STEVE LIEBMANN: In a relaxed and friendly address, Steve referred to his time of growing up in Cooma, his father's part in the foundation of the Cooma Rotary Club along with Lindsay Hain, his start in the media with 2XL and John Scott, his association with many of the well-known names in the area, his career and the importance to him of his credibility and integrity in the media. He is still in the industry working for Foxtel on the history channel and also involved in the commemoration of the centenary of the Gallipoli campaign.

During the dinner, almost $750 (plus a 1921 penny, 100 francs, and 30c Fijian) was raised to promote Mental Health awareness. This money came from fines, heads and tails and the raffle.

Peter Davis showed off the Rotary team (!) that will take part in the tug of war against Lions.

The Cooma representation at the Friday night dinner at the District Assembly. We were privileged to hear Dr Brendan Nelson, an amazing, fluent and articulate speaker who spoke without any notes. He is obviously passionate about his work with the Australian War Memorial and the depth of his knowledge is profound. He listed fifteen qualities that were shown by the people who served in the forces in the various wars, including resourcefulness and decision making. Australia's heritage is in safe hands.
